Dr. Carrie Shaver will explore administrative strategies for building sustainable rural health organizations in frontier settings, drawing from her experience founding the New Mexico Rural Health Association and conducting a statewide listening tour across New Mexico's frontier communities. The presentation will examine operational challenges unique to geographically isolated settings, demonstrate how administrators can strategically leverage community partnerships and diversified funding mechanisms to ensure organizational resilience, and share evidence-based lessons from frontier healthcare delivery that can be applied to other rural contexts.

OPEN TO ALL TTUHSC STUDENTS, FACULTY, & STAFF.
